Fourth Big Flow May Reach Government Road In Kona Today, Is Report

PROFESSOR JAGGAR SAYS ACTIVITY IS UNABATED

River of Fire Sets Beautiful Koa Forest Ablaze On Mauna Loa Slopes

(Special By Mutual Wireless) HILO, Hawaii, May 25. — (Received in Honolulu at 5:30 p.m.)— The new flow, known as the fourth since the recent cruption of Mauna Lon, which broke forth at eleven o'clock on Tuesday night, is making its way down the side of the big mountain between the flows of 1887 and 1868. R. T. Mosea of Hilo and Lieut. Charles H. Bonesteel, U. S. A., instructor with the National Guard of Ha waii at Hilo, have just returned to this city from the new flow. They report that the river of molwide and is moving forward at the rate of twenty feet a minute. At this rate the flow is advancing a mile in about four hours and twenty

When last seen by the returned visitors, the flow was then about five a miles from the Kahuku Ranch gate. They watched the flow for three hours, while the forest on both rides was They watched the flow for three hours, while the forest on both rides was burning at several points. The other three flows are reported to be at a standstill and seem to have stopped altogether. Crowds from Hilo and other parts of the island continue to visit the scene of activity.

NTENSE ACTIVITY IS REPORTED

(Special By Mutual Wireless) HILO, Hawaii, May 25 .- (Received Honolulu at 3:30 p.m.)-Prof. Thomas A. Jaggar Jr., in charge of the Kilnuen Volcano Observatory, reported intense activity on Wednes-day between the flows of 1868 and 1887. The earlier flows, he says, are quiet and apparently not making any further headway.

The latest flow was eight miles long when the last reports reached Hilo, while the earlier Hanomalino flow was ten miles long, having traveled that dis-tance from the original outbreak below Puu Keokeo.

Many short flows have been found around the site of the big outbreak, which is at the seven-thousand-foot elevation, or twelve miles up the slopes of Mauna Loa. Many visitors were at the several flows on Wedgesday and yesterday, seeking curios and memen-toes of the big mountain's latest vol-

PASSENGERS ARRIVED

The latest flow is traveling at an estimated rate of two miles a day. Its tee is at present seven miles from the road, which, if the flow continues, will be reached on Saturday.

The lava is flowing through a magnifect koa forest. Mighty trees are borne bodily on its cress; severed from their roots by the flery mass and top-led over the surface of the river their branch fringes burnt and scarred.

As the lava eats its way through the forest, fills depressions and mounts slight rises, heautiful flery cassades are seen, with here and there explosions and detonations heard, as bubble-like cones burst and a flery mass of molter rock is thrown into the air.

Manager Fredenberg of the Kahuku Ranck spent the night with a number of others alongside the flow.

When Professor Jaggist last saw the own flow it was from a hundred yards to a quarter of a mile wide. The flow now threatens the Kahuku water system, it is reported.

MALL CRATERS

BELCH BOULDERS

Another wireless message received in Honolulu yesterday reported that Manager R. A. McWayne of the Honoma lino Ranch in South Kona reached the source of the great lava ontbreak on the Kahuku side of Mauna Loa on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Wayne found many small craters beliching forth boulders and Hquid lava. All the flows have stopped since, with the exception of the 'the making its way toward the homesteads. This flow is moving at about a mile a day.

COTTAGE USED AS CLUB IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire destroyed a cottage owned by Mrs. Manuel Richards and occupied by soldiers as a bachelors' club, at 1045 Kamchameha IV road, early yesterday morning. The soldiers had left the house before the blaze was discovered. After an investigation Fire Chief Thurston could give no reason for the origin of the fire, unless it was caused by a eightette stub left burning by one of the soldiers. The house and furnishings were insured for $1100. A portion of the building was left standing after the fire, but will have to be torn down as it is beyond repair.
